School board hopefuls must run by districts

BY DENA BISNETTE

The candidates in the Hancock County Beat Three School Board election have to campaign in about four-fifths less territory than they originally thought.

State Attorney General Mike Moore has provided an opinion stating that county school board members must run by beats, not countywide.

The Beat Four school board race would have been affected as well had more than one candidate qualified. Kay L. Sones is running unopposed in that district.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors Attorney Gerald Gex requested the opinion on behalf of the Hancock County Election Commission. Commissioner Charles Gottschalk said the opinion is not expected to cause any problems with the election itself.

The letter notifying Gex of the opinion, signed by Special Assistant Attorney General

Giles W. Bryant, states, "It is the opinion of this office that there is no authority to hold county school board elections from the county at large, and until special single member education districts are established under Section 37-5-1(2) (Mississippi Code of 1972, amended) and the elections held under Section 37-5-7(2), county school board elections must be held under the supervisor's districts as authorized by those two sections."

Gex had asked, due to the amount of amount of time and procedures involved in redistricting, whether school board members could run in supervisor's districts rather than forcing the county to attempt to set up new school beat lines before the election.

The question came up because House Bill 1127 repealed the legislation that allowed school board candidates to represent specific beats while running countywide.

Gex had also stated that despite the fact that Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph had been advised of the situation, the school board had failed to take any action regarding a request for clarification of the matter.

Therefore, any action of the election commission would have to be approved through the supervisors.

Section 35-5-1(2) provides authorization for the supervisors to create five beats in the school districts. The procedure is also outlined and requires the board to record its actions in its minutes and to publish the new boundaries in a newspaper of general circulation for three weeks before they become effective. Reapportionment is required after each census.

The letter also explained the qualifications required of school board candidates and the terms of office.

Three candidates are running in Beat Three and will be affected by the information in Bryant's letter. They include Carol Bustetter, the incumbent; Johnnie Richard, who opposed Bustetter in the special election in which voters chose her to complete the unexpired term of a board member who resigned; and former board member Louise Ladner.

The board of supervisors meets at 9 a.m. Friday and any necessary action by the board can be taken at that time.

The election is scheduled for Nov. 8.

Centennial events set for Saturday

BY DENA BISNETTE

Waveland's Centennial festivities will continue Saturday, beginning with a parade at 2 p.m.

The parade will begin at Elwood Bourgeois Field at the corner of Central and Waveland Avenues, proceed down Central to Coleman Avenue, take Coleman to Beach Boulevard and turn up Terrace Avenue to disband on Central, City Clerk Arcelyn Dastugue said.

Parade Coordinator Lawrence Freeman, who serves as the Waveland Civic Association's representative on the centennial committee, said 38 units including floats, marching units, bands and decorated vehicles are scheduled to participate.

At 5 p.m., an encore of Waveland's second centennial event, a red beans and rice meal at old-fashioned prices, will begin at the American Legion Post 77 home on Terrace Avenue.

Plates of red beans and rice will be available for $1, with 25 cent beer and five cent cokes available. Due to the large response to the first red beans and rice event, take-out orders are not available.

Musical entertainment will be provided from 6 p.m. until 10 p.m. by Bo and Dee in the legion home parking lot.

Closing ceremonies at the legion begin at 8 p.m. Visiting dignitaries are scheduled to include State Commander Emmett Case, Mississippi Executive Committeeman Fred Ingellis, 40 et 8 Grand Chef de Gare for Mississippi Clayton Thompson and Southern Area Commander Carl Sanders, Freeman said.

The Waveland Civic Association's annual fireworks display, postponed from the Labor Day weekend, due to a hurricane threat, has been added to the centennial celebration and will begin at 9:30 p.m. at the foot of the Waveland Municipal Pier at Terrace Avenue.

CENTENNIAL—Waveland City Clerk Arcelyn "D" Dastugue shows a 100-year-old magazine, The Delineator, dedicated to the fashions of the day during the time Waveland was incorporated. The magazine is owned by Waveland Alderman Curtis Colson and his wife Roxanne. County's first known 'crack house' raided

BY DENA BISNETTE

A joint investigation by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and the Bay St. Louis Police Department has resulted in a raid on the county's first known "crack house."

Sheriff's Department Investigator Glen Strong said three people were arrested at about 11:55 p.m. Monday when a search warrant was executed on a Waveland apartment.

In addition, crack cocaine, paraphernalia, ingredients and money were confiscated.

Those arrested included 21-year-old Wayne Martin Raboteau, of 171 Gulf Grove Apartments, Waveland; Marissa Ann Lyons, 19, of 408 Sycamore Street, Bay St. Louis; and Rafer C. Collins, 22, of 416 Sycamore Street, Strong stated.

All three were charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute.

Bond was set at $5,000 each. The crack cocaine was, by conservative estimates, worth about $650 on the street, the investigator said.

Ingredients for the crack, including baking soda and headache powders apparently used to cut the cocaine, were found when 171 Gulf Grove Apartments was searched on a warrant issued by Judge Joseph Dobson.

The crack itself was packaged individually in small bags that each contained a single chunk of the drug, which resembles rock salt but is coarser and off-white in color. An additional 18 bags were found containing cocaine residue.

Strong said $237 in cash and two handguns were also seized.

The investigation originated in Bay St. Louis and took about two months.

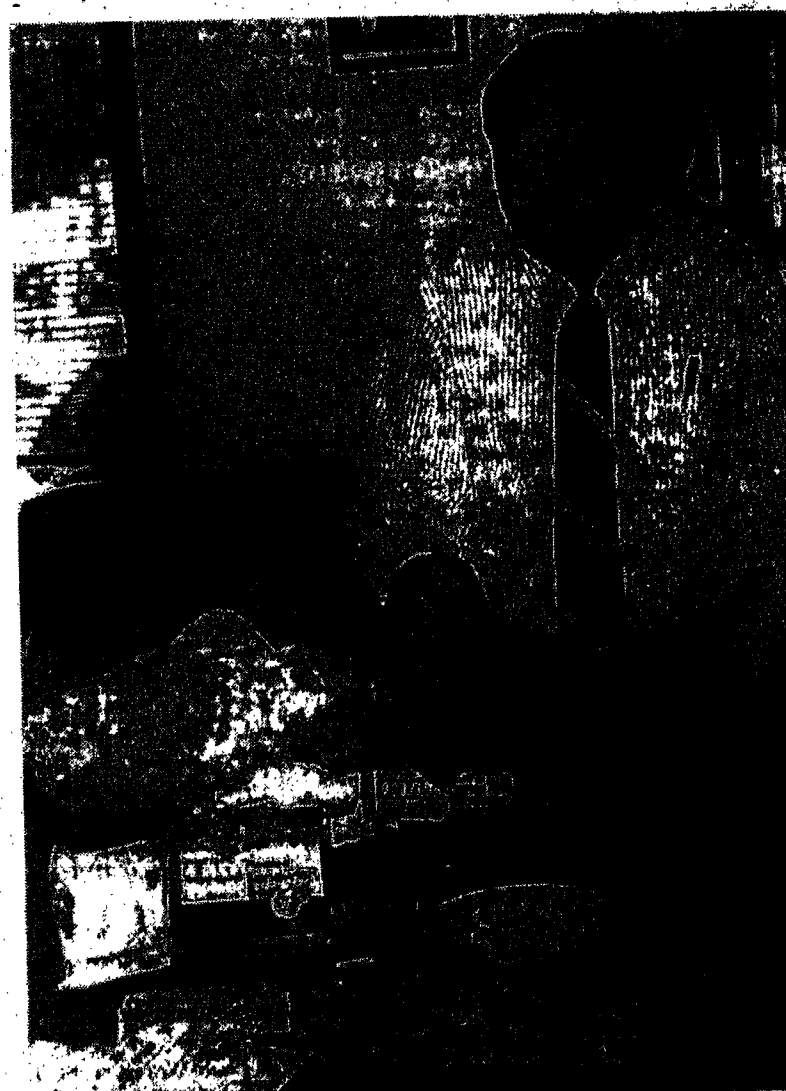

"As far as we can tell, this is the first and only crack house that has existed in Hancock County," Strong added. "There is more crack here but we don't know if any more is being made in the county."

"We have not had that much input about crack through any of our investigations other than this place. We are certainly aware the problem does exist and hope to find any more before they get cracked up."

Assisting in the investigation were Bay St. Louis Deputy Chief Mark Ohman and Detective Tom Burleson. Deputy Albert Biehl assisted with the search and arrests.

Bay Tech buys old Bay Post Office

Charles R. Ramsey, president and general manager of Bay Technical Associates Inc. of Bay St. Louis, announced Bay Tech's purchase of the old downtown post office from the United States Postal Service as a result of public bidding procedures in May 1988.

The Main Street location had served as the post office for Bay St. Louis for more than 50 years and was replaced in January, 1988 by a new facility on Hwy. 90.

The Main Street building was constructed in 1935 and is a historic landmark on the Gulf Coast.

Ramsey stated the the Electronics Systems Division, presently located on Hwy. 603 will occupy the building as soon as renovations are completed. Approximately 12 employees will be added to the Bay St. Louis operations.

Ramsey said, "This purchase, along with the current construction of a 10,000-square-foot addition to the corporate headquarters on 2nd Street should allow an increase in the downtown employment to approximately 150 employees."

The historic Depression-era mural "Life on the Coast" by Louis Raynaud, which was housed in the lobby of the building has been removed.

Michael D. Hass Jr., attorney representing Bay Technical Associates Inc., stated that final documentation should be completed soon and was being handled through the Southern Regional Office of the United States Postal Service in Memphis and the local postmaster.

Free forestry report available

Mississippi Forests and You is a new comprehensive, 39-page report on the current status of forestry in the Magnolia State that is now available through request to the state forester.

The two-part report includes both quick-facts on forestry and more detailed information on this vital natural resource. Timberland ownership pattern, growth/harvest comparisons, current trends, roadblocks to productivity and recommended solutions to these roadblocks, are covered in the report.

"All Mississippians would benefit from reviewing this report," says State Forester Sid Moss, "but forest landowners in particular should obtain a copy and give it a close review."

The report was prepared from information provided by the South's fourth Forest Report and the 1987 Forest Survey for Mississippi. A group of forestry professionals forming a Mississippi Timber Study Group collaborated to write the report.

Single copies of Mississippi's Forests and You are available by request to: State Forester, Mississippi Forestry Commission, 301 N. Lamar St., S-300, Jackson, MS. 39201 (Phone 359-1386).

Q. Which is older, the Mississippi Army National Guard or the state of Mississippi?

A. The Guard. Territorial Governor Winthrop Sargent issued an order on September 8, 1798 calling for the militia to be organized. Mississippi gained statehood in 1817, 19 years later, becoming the 20th state in the union.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Don't forget the Waveland Centennial Parade at 2 p.m. Saturday.

There should be a huge turnout for this event which will come on the final day of Waveland's 100th anniversary celebration.

Everyone is invited to the big celebration by Waveland Mayor John Longo and Aldermen.

After the parade one can make a purchase of Red Beans and Rice for $1 with Cokes at 5¢ and beer at 25¢ from 5 to 9 p.m. at the Waveland American Legion home. It has been a long time since I have seen such low prices.

Live entertainment will be provided by the Bo & Dee Band from 6 to 10 p.m.

Fireworks are scheduled for 9:30 p.m. at the Waveland Municipal Pier.

It looks like a day of big celebration and fun for everyone.

We hope to see you at the parade and festivities in Waveland on Saturday.

Homecoming festivities will be celebrated at St. Stanislaus Friday as the Rock-A-Chaws play host to Riverdale, La.

Stanislaus lost a heart breaker last week to Poplarville in the last few seconds.

The Rocks hope to get back on the winning track this week after losing two very close games at home by a total of only five points.

Homecoming is a time at St. Stanislaus for a big celebration as many of the school's former graduates from many states around return to their alma mater.

The high flying Hawks of Hancock North Central will travel to Long Beach to play the Bearcats.

Long Beach has had a bad season and could be up for the Hawks and pull some surprises on them if they are not careful.

Among the reasons for the Hawks success this season, has been their ability to run a balanced attack, as they can strike paydirt from the ground or air.

The Pirates of Pass Christian, who are rebuilding seem to be improving with each game.

This week the Pirates will travel to Pearl River and could take a victory home.

Bay High's Tigers are open this week and will be resting a bit for their last three games of the season which include St. Martin, Hancock North Central and St. Stanislaus.

We hope to see you at the game.

Today, Friday and Monday, area residents will be able to view one of our residents on Television Channel 4 of New Orleans.

On those three afternoons at 4:30 p.m., Sherry Schwabacher of the Diet Center is scheduled to be one of the contestants on Jeopardy.

The shows were filmed in Hollywood, Calif. on August 1 & 2, Sherry said. She was selected in a contestant search held in New Orleans.

Sherry's says the experience was so much fun and she really enjoyed the filming, yet she would not tell us what she won, so we will have to watch the shows to see how well she did as a contestant.

Since she appears on three shows, I feel she must have done well to have been a contestant that long. Sherry indicated the experience was so great, she would like to do it full time.

We will be looking forward to seeing her on television.

MEC continues support of county unit system

Voters in 81 of Mississippi's 82 counties will have a decision to make when they go to the polls on Nov. 8. They must decide whether their county will operate under the unit system or continue the outdated beat system of government.

The Mississippi Economic Council believes the unit system is the most efficient form of county government and that counties can afford to pass up the savings offered under the unit system of compared with the beat system.

The MEC has been joined by a host of others who also believe the unit system to be the best form of government for Mississippi.

The beat system is totally inadequate to deal with what is happening and will continue to happen in our county government. Many counties are in a state of financial crisis. Five of the counties are in such a state that they would have to be taken over by the state government.

ing industry's demands for water supply, sewers and roads," said John Thomas, executive director of the National Association of Counties.

"If it's done right, it can save the taxpayers of this state a lot of money by cutting out duplication of services," said Harrison County Supervisor Billy McDonald, while campaigning for Southern District Highway Commissioner.

A survey conducted by Mississippi State University indicates 66 percent favor the unit system while 17.5 percent oppose it.

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor Ray Mabus

As election day nears, I hear more and more from citizens of Mississippi who are in favor of the Unit System of county government.

That is good news because, as I have said before, a vote for the Unit System is a vote for good government, and a vote against corruption.

But I want to sound an early warning: Be sure you know how to register your pro-Unit System vote.

If you support the Unit System, you need to vote "Yes" on the question as it will appear on the ballot: "Do you want to require that county to operate under the countywide system of road administration?"

Only if you vote "Yes" on that question will you and other taxpayers get the full benefits of the Unit System in your county.

As I mentioned in this column last week, Mississippi State University conducted a poll asking that very question. The poll indicated that about 66 percent of all Mississippians—with practically no difference between rural and urban counties—support the Unit System of county government.

A refusal to estimate cost savings is a refusal to try and give taxpayers a complete picture. That is wrong.

State Auditor Pete Johnson told the Mississippi Legislature that the Unit System can be implemented by counties at little or no cost.

The state auditor can help set the record straight when he certifies cost estimates.

Beyond that, voters could be confused if they don't understand how to vote "Yes" on the Unit System when the words "Unit System" appear nowhere in the ballot question.

Remember, if you support the Unit System, you want to vote "Yes" on the question:

"Do you want to require the county to operate under a countywide system of road maintenance?"

It was a major victory for Mississippians to get the opportunity to decide this vital issue. You can help write a brighter future for your counties while helping to put a halt to corruption by approving the Unit System in your counties on Nov. 8.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Highway 43 no home for domestic animals

To the Editor,
To the driver of the automobile who struck and killed the fat little tabby cat in front of her driveway on Highway 43 between 4 a.m. and 6:45 a.m. on Monday morning, Oct. 10:

Sir or Madam,
I just would like you to know that when you struck and killed that little animal, you removed from our house one of the most precious, loving friends we have ever known. Only one who has ever grieved like we are grieving can appreciate our situation.

I don't know the circumstances of the accident and if you were able to avoid her, but I do know from my own driving experience, that far too often drivers make no effort to slow or avoid animals they see on the highway.

Highways 43 and 603 are strewn with the bodies of animals, domestic and wild, that could not compete with the high-speed traffic.

I hope for your sake that you never have to experience what we have felt in this last 24 hours. Our hearts are broken and we'll miss her terribly, but you have helped us in one way; we are resolved to never have another pet as long as we reside on Highway 43.

It's not fair to an animal to place them in harm's way and it has hurt us too much to ever seek this experience again.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Judy Caplinger

Liberal and conservative labels do not apply in the liberal sense

To the Editor,

In the heat of political conflict, some good words have unknowingly been slandered and misused. For example, the words "liberal" and "conservative" are good or evil words; virtues or vices, depending upon each issue in question.

Please check your dictionary. The word liberal primarily means generous, given to causes that promote liberty and freedom. However, we obviously know that real liberalism is not unrestrained license, and that all movement and change is not necessarily good, else why do we have steering wheels and brakes on our vehicles?

Likewise, the word conservative obviously means to conserve or preserve. But, the question is: What should we conserve? Just to conserve and never to change anything means no progress whatsoever; to still be living in caves.

Do we want to conserve the terror of tyrants, either on the right or left? Liberals in communist countries are those who are trying to bring about more freedom and liberty for their oppressed people. Do we want to conserve slavery? Injustice? Inequality? Oppression? Nuclear war on earth?

To the contrary, can't we all agree that true conservatism means to preserve our economy from unbalanced budgets, trade deficits, supply side economics, etc.?

Some Mississippi politicians submit to use that the best system of county government is conservative. But, to the contrary, most of us know that it is conducive to crime, favoritism, duplication and waste.

True conservatism is to strive for conserving our God-given fresh air, ozone layer, untainted soil, unpolluted waters, lush green forests, an abundant supply of various plant and animal species (some of which are now gone forever) against erosion, pollution, destruction and extinction. But, most of all, true conservatism means preserving human bodies born and unborn, minds and souls against ignorance, disease, death and destruction.

Have we forgotten our history and heritage? About one-third of our colonists were ultra-conservative Tories, loyal to the tyranny of King George. They believed he ruled by divine right. Thank God there were some who were liberals, even radicals and revolutionaries like Adams, Franklin, Patrick Henry, Washington, Jefferson, and Nathan Hale who even in death refused to renounce his left-wing radicalism when he said, "I regret that I have but one life to give up for my country."

Such men as these were glad to be labeled "liberals" and radicals, and to stake their lives, fortunes, and sacred honor in such a radical cause. Shouldn't we, today, be proud to try to follow their noble examples?

Seal disputes report of FAA statements

To the Editor,

In reference to the article in The Sea Coast Echo, Oct. 6, concerning the new school site at Stennis Airpark:

According to Miller, "Mr. Buddy Broadway, the engineer involved in the site selection, did research with the FAA and found there is no safety problem."

This was in reference to the new junior and senior high schools in Hancock County at Stennis International Airport.

I, along with J. T. Newkirk and other concerned citizens talked with the proper people concerning this newspaper quote. They stated, "There was no research done with the FAA, that they were asked to call the FAA to determine which site was the most dangerous or hazardous (the site in line with the runway at the old ammunition plant or the site at Stennis Airport)."

I challenge Mr. Miller to bring forth any evidence he may have to substantiate the above quote and any documents he might have from FAA stating there was no danger problems with the Stennis airpark and/or proof of research such as names of person or persons contacted and when and where the contact was made.

We have checked with FAA in Gulfport (404-5021) Atlanta (404-763-7527) and Jackson (965-4628) and they know of no research nor have they quoted that it presented no safety problem.

Everybody I talked to agrees that the most recent airplane crashes are occurring to the side of the runways such as New Orleans, Dallas and others and have claimed many lives. Don't let a disaster happen involving our children.

Call one of the following numbers, 255-7714, 255-7415, 533-7195 or 798-1109. Be a part of "We, the concerned citizens of Hancock County who love and care about our children."

Hawks to face Bearcats Friday

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock North Central Hawks will defend their undefeated status as they travel to Long Beach to take on the Bearcats Friday.
The Hawks, ranked 10th in the state, will be facing a homecoming Bearcat team that up to this point in the season has put together a poor record.
According to Hawk Head Coach Irvin Favre, the game should be a battle anyway.
"We're expecting a rough football game," he said. "Traditionally, in the past, Long Beach and Hancock has been a tough game between the two. We're expecting a very physical game."

"Long Beach has struggled through the season, but you can never tell when they might rise to the occasion."
"Our goal this week is to kind of work on the psychological thing...We can't really look ahead and we can't look back either. We have to think about this game."
"We can't be lazy or they could upset us," he said. Gametime is 7:30 p.m. at Long Beach stadium.

Squirrel, rabbit season opens

Two of the most popular small game hunting seasons in Mississippi will be getting underway soon. Squirrel season, the second most popular hunting season in the Magnolia State will open this Saturday, Oct. 15.

Last year in Mississippi more than 160,000 hunters took over two million squirrels during the fall and winter periods. The daily bag limit is eight and the possession limit is 16, with no possession limit permitted on opening day.

Shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset.

Biologists at the Department of Wildlife Conservation are saying that the mast crop in many sections of the state is above average to good, despite the recent drought conditions.

Squirrels depend upon mast as an important food item.

The squirrel season will continue through Jan. 15.

Rabbit season also gets underway Oct. 15 and will continue through Feb. 28. The daily bag and possession limits and shooting hours are the same as for squirrels.

Rabbits and beagles. The two are inseparable. And come opening day nearly 100,000 hunters will take to the fields with their dogs in a chase that has survived the ages.

For both squirrel and rabbit, hunters must have a valid state hunting license signed and on their person before going afield.

Home resales increase

Home resale activity in Mississippi during the second quarter of 1988 was 11 percent higher than the first quarter in 1988, Phillip R. Long, president of the Mississippi Association of Realtors, reports. However, the second quarter 1988 existing home sales were 8.5 percent off the mark of the second quarter a year earlier.

On a seasonally adjusted annual basis, home resales in Mississippi (including existing single-family homes, apartment condominium units and cooperative units) increased to 32,200 units during the second quarter of 1988 compared with 28,100 units during the first quarter of 1988.

"Conditions still remain favorable for home sellers, although in most areas it continues to be a buyers' market," said Long.

Mortgage interest rates increased during the past few months to about 10.7 percent for a conventional fixed-rate, 30-year loan. Hopefully, interest rates will drop slightly prior to the elections, then rates are expected to remain even. Housing affordability for the first time home buyer has taken a dip, but affordability for other qualified buyers remains stable.

"Even with these slightly higher rates, home purchases are still very affordable for many Mississippians because the median existing home prices are steady. It appears that it is going to take an improvement in the overall economy and more employment to make the market conditions more favorable in our state," said Long.

Home resales in Mississippi achieved the following seasonally adjusted annual rates during the previous three quarters: first quarter 1988, 28,100 units; fourth quarter 1987, 30,800 units and third quarter 1987, 34,700 units.

Nationwide, 1988 second quarter resales activity for single-family homes, apartment condominiums and cooperatives increased 9.3 percent over the 1988 first quarter seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.650 million units compared to the rate of 3.990 million units for the second quarter of 1988.

"The National Association of Realtors had anticipated a slight increase in resales activity during the second quarter, due to the good weather and normal spring and early summer turnover with families moving to other job locations," Long added. He said that the association's economists predict an improved affordability if mortgage interest rates are leveled during the remainder of the year.

The annual rate of a particular quarter represents what the total number of actual sales for a year would be if the relative sales pace in that quarter were maintained for four consecutive quarters.

Seasonally adjusted annual rates are used in reporting monthly and quarterly data to factor out seasonal variations in resale activity. For example, home sales volume normally is higher in the summer and relatively light in winter months, primarily because of differences in weather.

FARM NEWS

Farm Bureau Federation urges consideration in road administration

Mississippians, faced with a monumental decision, must carefully examine both sides of the issue in the upcoming vote on centralized county road administration.

Hugh Arant, president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, has issued a challenge to his organization's 167,000 members to sort out all the statements being made about the issue, and then to cast their votes for what will be best for them and their respective counties.

"Much of the information being heard is conflicting,"

Arant said. "We are encouraging our members to visit with their local officials to take a close look at the cost involved in implementing a countywide system of road administration, the tax base available to cover that cost and the savings, if any, generated by such a system."

Arant continued, "The voters of this state have a responsibility to understand just what is being voted on in this issue. Our organization will attempt to inform its members about what the legislation passed in the special session actually mandated and what the people have a choice of when they vote. It is vital that they understand the difference."

In a recent leadership newsletter, the federation quoted State Auditor Pete Johnson on the matter. Johnson said, "A vote for or against the countywide system of road administration has nothing to do with preventing fraud or abuse. That issue was appropriately addressed with centralized purchasing. In voting for or against the countywide road administration, we are addressing whether or not it is the most efficient use of tax dollars. No one knows better than local people."

Johnson also said, "The fact of the matter is, this bill has so much flexibility that the boards of supervisors will be able to fashion the system that is best for them. But it all comes back to the start-up cost."

"I think the state auditor's remarks hit at the heart of the matter," Arant said. "The voters must take the time to study what will happen if the referendum is passed or if it is defeated. They must examine all aspects of what the referendum calls for before going to the polls."

County Forester

The drought of '88 and our forest land

A lot of folks are saying the drought of '88 is the worst they've seen since the Dustbowl of the 1930s. We're still running about nine inches short of normal on our rainfall over the state as a whole. What will be the impact on our forests? Will it have an insidious effect—weakening them and silently eroding our future supply of wood? Let's look a little closer at what the drought's impact might eventually be on forest in our state.

Loss of tree seedlings is one costly legacy of the drought of '88. Although the losses haven't turned out thus far to be nearly as bad as we expected, there will still be several thousands of acres of one- or two-year-old seedlings to replant. Thank goodness for the Drought Relief Act that will help with replanting costs.

Probably the greatest danger from the drought is its effect on the wildfire season, which normally runs from November through March in Mississippi.

Drought severity maps of the United States, compiled by the U.S. Forest Service, suggest this coming fire season might be particularly dangerous for the Western U.S. and parts of Mississippi and the South—perhaps even worse than 1987! We had 217,000 acres scorched by uncontrolled fires last year—nearly a 25-year record.

The drought could also cause long-term problems in our forests with respect to insects and diseases. Trees weakened by drought will be more susceptible to attack from these elements. We'll also grow less wood during these dry years as overall growth of our trees is slowed.

But the news is not all bad. Although the drought has been severe and danger from forest fire is ever present, seedlings that sprouted via natural means are stronger and will probably survive dry conditions better than those we planted by hand or machine. Seedlings grown in nature have an advantage over nursery seedlings; their root systems have not been subjected to the shock of being dug up and transplanted, hence they are more able to tolerate dry conditions.

Another more positive outlook on the drought situation would be that percentages of trees lost to the drought do not necessarily reflect the percentage of trees that must be replanted. If the stricken trees were planted close or happen to be distributed throughout a forest, their death from the drought could be regarded as part of the natural thinning process and they wouldn't have to be replaced.

Will the Forestry Commission's three nurseries be able to replace the seedlings lost this year? You bet. In fact we've still got a plentiful supply of pine seedlings and even a few thou-

Drought disaster claims filing described by ASCS

Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office, said 1988 crops damaged by drought during the 1988 calendar year may be covered under the Disaster Assistance Act of 1988.

The act provides assistance for emergency livestock feed; loss of 1987 and 1988 tree seedlings; re-establishment of forage crops on permanent pasture; disaster payment for qualifying deficiency in production; and retention of part of the advance 1988 crop deficiency payments.

"Eligible crops include all commercial crops," Gennin said. Farm program participants sand of a couple of hardwood species.

The final diagnosis of the drought's impact on forests this year is that we can expect some seedling losses, but these losses are generally localized. As a fellow forester friend of mine said: "Droughts always look worse in the year they occur." We might even find that the drought of 1986 was more devastating to our forests than this year's...or the one in 1981.

who received advance deficiency payments will not have to refund that part of the advance payment for crop production losses less than 85 percent of normal production. "Producers who did not collect advance payments at sign-up will have 30 days after being notified to request their advance payments."

Eligible producers who apply must furnish ASCS with acreage and crop production reports.

Drummond announces candidacy for Beat Four supervisor

Bay St. Louis businessman James E. Drummond, 55, is seeking the Hancock County Beat Four supervisor slot in the Nov. 8 special election.

"Beat Four needs a professional businessman as its representative on the Board of Supervisors," said Drummond, owner of Drummond's Auto Clinic on Old Spanish Trail.

JAMES E. DRUMMOND

He has completed more than 100 hours of training in business management and accounting in courses offered by the U.S. Small Business Administration. He has completed course work in basic electronics, hydraulics and blueprints at Pearl River Community College.

"I have maintained certification as a qualified General Motors technician for the past 23 years," Drummond said. He is also a licensed heavy equipment operator.

The candidate is a Korean War veteran having served in the 1903rd Aviation Engineering Battalion.

"My battalion constructed the largest airstrip in Korea. We also built roads, bridges, drainage systems and structures of all sizes," Drummond said.

He was one of the first two black law enforcement officers in Hancock County, having served with former sheriffs Sylvan Ladner and Fred Curet.

Also, he was the first black to run for elective office in Hancock County in the early 1970's when he finished a close second in a Beat Four constable's race.

While a deputy, Drummond also served as a rehabilitation coordinator for the Mississippi Department of Corrections providing on-the-job training for Parchman parolees at his automotive business.

Drummond is a founder of the Headstart program in Hancock County, a former United Way director and former member of Cancer and Heart associations and the Hancock County Human Relations Committee.

"I have always done my best to get the job done and I feel my background and qualifications make me your best choice for Beat Four supervisor," he said.

A native of Newton, he is a graduate of Newton Vocational High and a member of First Missionary Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis.

He has been a resident of Bay St. Louis for the past 37 years and is married to Mamie Young Drummond.

They are the parents of Charles Drummond and Linnette Potts, both of Bay St. Louis, and the late Harold Drummond.

"Beat Four needs a professional as its supervisor. Elect me so we can get the job done," Drummond said.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

The story goes that Saltimbocca, that delightfully tangy veal and ham combination, reached its glory years ago in a restaurant near La Scala Opera House in Milan, Italy, where it was served in dainty bite-sized rolls, so that the elegantly turned out ladies could pop them into their mouths before hastening to the opera.

In fact, that's why this dish is called "Saltimbocca"—for that's what it means in Italian—"Jump in the Mouth."

Many cooks in America and elsewhere now make this dish with flat pieces of ham-topped veal, but, I still prefer to cook it in its original rolled form, in larger-sized portions for luncheon or dinner, and in bite-size, well flavored, for hors d'oeuvres.

And, let me confess, I often use chicken or turkey scallops, thin slices of breast meat, instead of the veal, in the interest of the food budget. (Times change, and prices with them, don't they? When I was growing up in New Orleans and on the Coast, veal was dubbed 'city chicken' for its relatively cheap price and many a hostess substituted veal for chicken in her dainty chicken salad sandwiches at afternoon tea. Now, we substitute chicken or turkey for the veal.)

That's one of the things that make life—and cooking—interesting, isn't it? So, here's: SALTIMBOCCA

12 thinner than thin pieces of veal, each 4 inches or so square
12 slices ham or the true Italian prosciutto

Freshly ground pepper
Ground sage
Four or five Tbsp. butter
1 cup dry white wine

First, dust a dozen thin, thin, pieces of the veal (or substitute) with a bit of sage, ground, just about a miserly pinch to each, square, along with freshly ground pepper to your taste (I like enough to make a good sneezing session, but do as you like). Top each slice with a slice of ham or prosciutto. Roll up, and fasten with a toothpick.

Brown the rolls in a large, heavy skillet, in the butter, until golden, then pour in the wine, cover and simmer for three quarters of an hour, perhaps a bit more, until tender.

A more Americanized version dips the rolls in a batter and then in bread crumbs before frying or baking. Still others top the veal with the ham, when with Swiss cheese, finishing with another square of veal (or substitute) atop, pressing the edges together, and dipping first in flour, then in beaten egg, then in crumbs, before browning in butter over medium heat until nicely golden brown, approximately five minutes on each side. Then, you 'swish out' the skillet with a wine and pour it over the meat.

Incidentally, if you want to use the veal scallops, and yours isn't a friendly butcher who'll flatten the scallops for you, all is not lost—the broad side of a kitchen knife, the rim of a soup bowl, or your meat mallet will do the job.

Just be sure that the meat is pounded thin. (Six or more servings.)

Red flannel potato salad offers a taste of our heritage

Many of the most interesting and tasty dishes in our American food heritage were created out of necessity in home kitchens, by blending on-hand ingredients with a dash of inspiration. For instance, the New Englanders' time-honored 'red flannel hash' is made from the colorful leftovers of their boiled dinner or corned beef, potatoes, beets and onions.

As 'culinary nostalgia' gains popularity, so do adaptations of the favorites. Red Flannel Potato Salad contains the characteristic hash ingredients sparked with a tangy dressing for a refreshingly different dish. Prepare with mayonnaise or oil, as you like, and be assured that the salad will remain true to its picturesque name—the beets tint it pinkish-red.

Its frugal creators commonly served red flannel hash with poached eggs—the high-quality protein in eggs helps to stretch other more costly and less abundant protein foods. Hard-cooked eggs are included in Red Flannel Potato Salad to do the same (as well as to add their special flavor and texture). In fact, one serving will provide about 1/4 of your daily protein needs.

RED FLANNEL POTATO SALAD

8 servings

1 jar (16 oz.) sliced pickled beets
1/2 cup mayonnaise OR 1/2 cup cooking oil
2 teaspoons horseradish mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups diced cooked potatoes (about 1 lb.)
8 hard-cooked eggs*, sliced
1 package (4 oz.) ready-to-eat corned beef, cut into 1" strips
3/4 cup chopped green onions with tops
Additional hard-cooked egg

Molasses back in culinary fashion

Molasses, generally thought of as typically American, is really much older than the Pilgrim Fathers. It was probably first made in India or China where sugar cane was first grown.

Molasses was the principle sweetener in 18th and 19th century American homes. Every cabin and covered wagon had its molasses jug or barrel. The molasses pitcher went to the table, along with the vinegar cruet, spoon holder and sugar bowl. Later, improvements in sugar refining and the abundant and cheap supply of sugar cane spelled the decline in popularity of this old-time sweetener.

In recent years the back-to-nature phenomenon has made molasses a high fashion item at the grocery store. Also, when they cook, consumers are doing more cooking from scratch. Naturally, basic foods like molasses are being re-discovered.

Today's molasses is a more modern version of that processed by the mule-drawn cane mill of yesteryear. However, there's still a lot of nostalgia in remembering the old cane mills at work in the fall of the year like the one you'll see at the Mississippi State Fair. The syrup you see being made is used in the real down-home biscuits you can taste at the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce biscuit booth on the fairgrounds.

In today's markets you find light and dark corn syrup and molasses, pure cane syrup or a mixture of corn and cane syrup with honey.

To produce the syrup or molasses you find today requires a special cane. The juice from the cane is cooked until a syrup of the desired thickness and concentration is reached. The quality depends on the maturity of the cane, amount of sugar removed from the juice and the method of making. Quality may also depend on whether the juice is used mainly for making molasses or whether the manufacturer is mainly using sugar and getting molasses as a by-product.

Molasses is best in sweetening power if you use it to replace no more than one-half the amount of sugar called for in the recipe. When you think of old fashioned molasses pie, gingerbread, cookies or just hot buttered biscuits, you think of the jars or cans of molasses on the grocery shelf. But, if you have the opportunity to get home-made syrup—you'll really have a prize package.

Humane Society extends plea for shelter donations

By Thyla Rogers and Mary Sindors

Ricky was brought into the Waveland Shelter in July. He came in the arms of a very well dressed woman who said, "Someone dropped this on our lawn." He was swaddled in an old towel.

At the time, Ricky was covered with ticks and fleas, very emaciated and could barely stand. He had suffered some neck trauma and could only raise his head sideways. His body was almost hairless and because of the mound of ticks under each arm and in his feet, he could only stand spread eale and weave. He made no sound at all.

All the suffering and mental and physical anguish in the shelter seemed to be personified in this little 16-pound part-terrier, part-poodle puppy.

For five days he remained at the shelter. The Humane Society, who was allowed in the shelter at that time, tried to offer nourishment and care aside from that usually offered by shelter personnel. At the end of the five days, Ricky was adopted by Thyla Rogers. Ricky was treated by both Dr. Chevis and Dr. Mahler and was found to have whip worms and a heart murmur from the loss of blood due to the fleas and ticks.

A week after he left the shelter he showed signs of having contracted distemper and had pneumonia. For days he hovered between life and death. Because of expert medical care and devoted nursing, Ricky is alive. It took almost two months before Ricky made any sounds. Today we call him, "Don't walk if you can run Ricky." We could add, "Don't bark if you can howl and sing Ricky."

There are many Rickys that end up in the animal shelters of this world. They have been born in discarded vehicles, under houses, in the woods and in 'nice' homes. They come into the shelters day after day either as strays from birth, or as discarded from the 'nice' homes where they were no longer wanted, perhaps because the owner carelessly permitted the mother to breed.

What happens to these unwanted, discarded animals once they are rejected depends on all of us. We must have a shelter where they can be humanely cared for and made adoptable.

It is the aim of the Humane Society to provide such a shelter. Every citizen everywhere is affected by the problem of stray and uncared for animals whether or not they are animal lovers. Their hearts may be torn by the starving stray on the roadside whose life will probably be ended under the wheels of a car.

Or they may simply be offended by howling, crying animals who disturb their sleep at night or oil their lawns during the day. A shelter is desperately needed as a solution to these problems which are the responsibility of all of us.

The society needs help to construct the shelter. We ask everyone to open their hearts and support the Society Shelter Fund Drive to be conducted throughout the fall of this year.

The first event of the fund drive campaign will be held on Saturday, Oct. 15, 6:30 p.m. at Scaffidi's Wheel Inn, Bay St. Louis. Anyone wishing to make reservations should call Thyla Rogers at 452-3593, Mary Sindors at 255-4417 or the society office at 467-7686. Contributions may be mailed to Mary Sindors at 3494 Airport Drive, Bay St. Louis, 39520, or may be brought to the society office at 837 Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis (in the Jolly Rogers Print Shop).

The Humane Society makes a special plea to everyone who owns property in the vicinity of Hwy. 90 and 603. We are in desperate need of high and dry location on which to put our building. Please consider donating between one and two acres to us. All donations are tax deductible.

Bay native is DSU standout

Special to the Echo
Consistent, dependable and solid. These are all words to describe Delta State University offensive lineman Jordan Bradford.

According to DSU offensive line coach Todd Knight, Jordan is a model of punctuality. "Jordan is the most reliable person we have on our offensive line. He performs well and he does the same thing week in and week out.

Jordan, who came to Delta State after a two-year stint at Pearl River Community College, says there is a very noticeable difference between junior college and Division II football at DSU.

"The level of competition here at Delta State is definitely higher. I've had to work much harder, and the coaches push you a lot more. But, then again, they give you more attention too," he said.

The 6-1, 245-pound Bay St. Louis native was selected to play in the state Junior College All-Star game upon completion of his sophomore year at Pearl River.

Bradford says even relatively small Delta State has provided a challenge for him to meet. "Football here at Delta State moves at a quicker pace. It's a whole lot more time consuming and takes a larger commitment."

"I hate to take Jordan out of a game," said Knight. "I should rest him more than I do, but he's such a key part of our offensive line. As a coach you always preach that you play like you practice. Jordan practices very well and plays the same exact way. He consistently grades well."

Bradford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan (Diane) Bradford Sr. of Bay St. Louis. He is a 1985 graduate of St. Stanislaus High School.

Coast Guard Flotilla No. 33 to conduct safe boating class

The Bay-Waveland Flotilla No. 33 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary has scheduled a public education class on 'Boating Skills and Seamanship.'

For six nights, starting at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 17, two classes per week will be conducted through Nov. 3 at the Diamond-head Community Center.

Thirteen major subjects will be covered: The Safe Way to Boating, Enjoyment, Boating Language and Trailing, Boat Handling, Legal Requirements, and Rules of the Road. Also, Aids to Navigation, Piloting, Marlinspike Seamanship, Sailing, Weather, Radio Telephone and Locks and Dams.

Completion of the course makes it possible for participants to better enjoy their boating experiences, and to do this in a safe manner, according to Flotilla Commander Gordon Stone.

Also, since the course and textbook are strictly in accordance with Coast Guard practices, completion can be the first step toward membership in the Coast Guard Auxiliary, Stone added.

Membership in the Bay-Waveland Flotilla is welcome to boaters who wish to participate in our educational and on-water activities. Now is the time to join so that by the next boating season new members will be fully qualified to take part in our function as a civilian adjunct to the U.S. Coast Guard.

Those interested should contact Stone at 467-7266 or Harrie Devine at 255-1298.

Bay-Waveland Coast Optimist Championship

The Gulf Coast Optimist Championship was held Oct. 8-9 at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. Overall winner was Malory McElroy of the Bay-Waveland club. Followed by Alan Uram of Bay-Waveland. Third overall was John Wetzel of Gulfport Yacht Club.

Malory McElroy, 16, of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club was the overall winner.

The winner of the Bay-Waveland Optimist Championship was John Wetzel of the Gulfport Yacht Club.

Rocks host Riverdale in Homecoming game

This Friday evening St. Stanislaus welcomes back its alumni for Homecoming festivities which will take place over the weekend. The highlight of these activities is the SSC-Riverdale football game Friday night.

The Rock-A-Chaws have selected a worthy opponent in Riverdale, as the Rebels presently hold a 4-2 worksheet against some respectable Louisiana teams. Riverdale has beaten Chalmette, St. James, Bonabel and Northshore, while losing to De LaSalle and East St. John. Last week East St. John defeated Riverdale 21-7.

Coach Ken Lyons of the Rock-A-Chaws said his team has held a good week of practice in preparation for the Rebels.

"Riverdale is as good as Poplarville," said Coach Lyons, "and that may be an understatement. What we've had to deal with this week is a lot of frustration from our close losses the last two weeks. Our kids are hungry for success and recognition."

Riverdale is an independent school this year, but next year will join the AAAA ranks of Louisiana high schools. Head Coach James Camhout went 5-5 last season, including a 20-0 blanking of SSC at their homecoming in Metairie. The Rocks will be hungry to return the favor this year.

The Rebels have 14 returning lettermen, including four talented skill position players. The quarterback is Ricky Powell running their Wing-T offense, and tailback Keith Brown, fullback Bagen LaBranch, and split end Ramon Phillips also are returning lettermen.

Offensive linemen who will start include Edward Todd Behler, tackle Donald Dugally, and cornerback Robert Williams.

"We will be prepared to go out and give our very best effort in order to please all the SSC alumni who will be returning to watch the game. We want to see the type of ballclub we really are," said Coach Lyons. Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m.

Pass Pirates headed for Pearl River Central

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Pass High Pirates go on the road this Friday to match forces with the Pearl River Central Blue Devils.

"It will probably be a passing game. Both teams will pass a lot," Pass Head Coach Joseph Brown said.

The Pirates sustained several injuries in last week's loss to East Central that may have an effect on this week's game, according to Brown.

"We've been down mentally. If we can get up we can possibly upset them. We just need to eliminate some mistakes," Brown said.

"We usually don't come to life until the second quarter," he added.

"Our defense has played really well. We've given up a lot of points but it's not our defense's fault. Our pass defense has been great. East Central threw 15 passes against us and didn't score," the coach said.

The offensive line-up for this week's game will be: Jerry Collier and Thad Williams at guard, Patrick Bonney and Shawn Dedeaux at tackle, Trampas Ladner at tight end, Tracy Watts at quarterback, Charlie Lizana and Jimmy Ladner at running back, Renaldo Delvallade and Eric Dawkins at flanker.

Their defense will be Tim Morrell at nose tackle, Chris Dedeaux at tackle, Terrance Lawton and Lashawn Ausner at end, Donald Knight, Earl Washington and Eldon Daniels at linebacker, Eric Dawkins and Renaldo Delvallade at corner and Sammy Taylor and Jarrod Page at safety.

"Our kids are still wanting to play ball. They are inexperienced, but we're getting on the right track, it's just a matter of time. Every game is important, we're serious about playing ball," Brown concluded.

Bulldogs close in rivalry series with USM, 13-10

The fur and feathers will be flying when Mississippi State returns to football competition Saturday, Oct. 15 with the 25th renewal of the rivalry between the Mississippi State Bulldogs (1-4) and in-state rival Southern Mississippi Golden Eagles (4-1).

Kickoff time at Mississippi Veterans Memorial Stadium is set for 1:30 p.m., and a crowd of 25,000-40,000 is anticipated. The Bulldogs, rejuvenated by last weekend's open date, are looking to rebound from a 31-10 setback at Memphis State.

In an often-times heated rivalry that dates back to 1935, Southern Mississippi's Golden Eagles have built a 13-10-1 series lead. USM, with some last-minute heroics, captured the last two MSU-USM battles and have won eight of the last 10 football meetings between the two schools.

Mississippi State captured eight of the first 10 games in the rivalry, which has been staged at three sites in the Magnolia sophomore Mike Davis drawing his first collegiate start, the Bulldogs unveiled an impressive aerial attack. Davis completed 23 of 45 passes for 283 yards, with flanker Fred Hadley hauling in a season's-best seven passes for 103 yards.

Young, subbing for starter Brett Favre, connected with wideout Darryl Tillman on a 14-yard pass and again on the State. The Bulldogs own a 7-6-1 edge in games played at Scott Field, while USM holds the upper hand in games played at M. M. Roberts Stadium in Hattiesburg (2-1) and at Jackson's Mississippi Veterans Memorial Stadium (7-6-1), the site of the last seven MSU-USM games.

As was the case in 1986, Southern Mississippi used some late-game heroics to pull out an 18-14 win over the Bulldogs in Jackson. Junior quarterback Ailrick Young came off the bench, completing six consecutive passes and guiding USM to a pair of touchdowns and a successful two-point conversion.

Mississippi State used a pair of Hank Phillips touchdown runs to build a 14-3 lead in the third period. In the game, with two-point conversion to make it a 14-11 game with less than eight minutes to play. And then, following a 33-yard punt return, scored on a 20-yard burst up the middle by freshman fullback Eddie Ray Jackson.

As to be expected there are a number of ties between the two schools' respective rosters. Meridian High School, however, has spawned the greatest number of ties among those listed on the depth charts.

Mississippi State's Hank Phillips, senior running back, and Kenny Stewart, freshman offensive tackle, both graduated from Meridian HS as did Southern Mississippi's Alfred Williams, a junior wide receiver, and Rod Lynch, a freshman linebacker. Lynch and Stewart graduated in 1987. Phillips graduated in 1984 and Williams in 1986.

B-Team Rocks blank Hancock

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw Junior Varsity team scored two touchdowns in the second half to defeat the HNC Hawks 12-0 in a B-Team football game played Monday night at Rock-A-Chaw Stadium.

Tory Lowe scored both touchdowns for the Rocks, one on a three-yard plunge with :29 seconds left in the first half. His second touchdown run was a 53-yard blast off right guard with 14:13 left in the game. Both SSC extra point tries were no good.

Receiving compliments from Coach Lyons for their performance were ends Galen Smith and John Cantwell, tackles Warren Latham and Jeff Bates, and guards Omer King Hebert and Andre Charlot. Center Tom Jennings was also singled out by Coach Lyons for an outstanding effort.

For the Hawks, Jeff Favre seemed to be all over the field, both running the ball on offense and making bone-crushing tackles on defense. The Hawks were led by quarterback Regan Ladner. Offensively, HNC had several drives, but could not push the ball into the endzone.

This win evened out a 14-12 overtime loss to HNC's B-Team earlier in the season.

Eagles defeat Tulane

The University of Southern Mississippi used a three touchdown passing performance from sophomore quarterback Brett Favre, 296 rushing yards, and a "Nasty Bunch" defense that limited Tulane to 236 yards of total offense enroute to an easy 38-13 victory over the Green Wave Saturday in the Louisiana Superdome.

The win was the first in the Dome since 1982 for the Eagles, and gives USM a 6-4-0 edge in the series with the New Orleans school.

The Eagles now are 5-1, and off to their best start since a similar 5-1 opening in 1983.

Favre finished with 156 completions in 25 throws, good for 179 yards and three TDs. In his last four games, he has completed 63 of 100 passes (.630) for .903 yards and five TDs, while throwing only three interceptions.

He continues to set new passing standards with each outing and to move up all the USM career passing lists. He now shows a record 24 TD passes, good for first on that list. He also is sixth in completions (166), seventh in attempts (355), and sixth in net yards (2,446).

USM, MSU to play Saturday

The University of Southern Mississippi and Mississippi State play for the 25th time Oct. 15 in Jackson's Veteran's Memorial Stadium. Game time is set for 1:30 p.m.

The series between the two schools has been one of streaks. The Bulldogs won the first five games (starting in 1935), USM win for the first time in 1967, and now has won 11 of the last 13 meetings, including the last two years.

In last year's game, the Golden Eagles rallied for 15 points in the fourth period behind the leadership of quarterback Ailrick Young. Down 14-3 in the third period, Young was inserted and proceeded to turn in a six-for-six (75 yards, one TD) passing day. Tailback Shelton Gandy also rushed for over 100 yards, and the USM defense limited the Dogs to just 123 yards on the ground.

Mississippi State continues to play one of the tougher schedules in the conference, and has had trouble winning this season. However, the Bulldogs still return some 18 starters from last season's team, along with 48 lettermen. Rocky Felker is in his third year as head coach at Mississippi State where he recorded 10 victories in his first two seasons.

USM has an even newer coach in Curley Hallman who moved to USM from an assistant coach's position at Texas A&M. Through five games, his club was 4-1 and top-ranked in the Independence Bowl Association which will supply a host team to the Dec. 23 game in Shreveport.

Felker's club runs a multiple offense and goes mostly with 4-3 defensive schemes.

USM counters with offensive weapons that include sophomore quarterback Brett Favre who recently set a new USM standard in the career passing TD category with 21, tailback Shelton Gandy who leads the team in rushing at almost 100 yards per game, and a passing attack that has seen 12 different Golden Eagles catch at least one pass. USM also has made rapid progress defensively and continues to get outstanding performances from the defensive backfield and a corps of linebackers that includes George Hill who turned in a 19 tackle game against Louisville.

Wildlife Department monitors oyster poaching, limits

With an Oct. 17 opening date, oyster season is just around the corner, but conservation officers are already stepping up patrols to stop poachers from taking their tolls on oyster reefs before season opens.

Hank Boudreaux, supervising conservation officer for the Department of Wildlife Conservation Bureau of Marine Resources, said most such violations occur on the reefs at night, and that the bureau is making maximum use of its auxiliary force to supplement regular patrols.

"Very little oyster poaching occurs during the day," Boudreaux said. "Our auxiliary officers usually have other jobs to go to during the day and can work with only at night. That means that we can have more men available during the peak times for poaching."

When oyster season does begin, conservation officers won't be relaxing, Boudreaux said.

"We'll still have our hands full," he said. "We'll be checking for boats with more than the legal sack limit of oysters. We'll be checking for untaxed sacks of oysters. One of our main concerns is oystering in closed waters."

Waters are closed to oystering when the water contains sewage that could contaminate oysters.

"From a human health standpoint, we're a stickler for the rules when it comes to oystering in closed waters," Boudreaux said. "People can get sick from eating contaminated oysters, and if some area gets a serious outbreak of cholera or hepatitis from people eating Mississippi oysters, the FDA (U.S. Food and Drug Administration) will close everything down. Then nobody will be able to oyster anywhere in Mississippi."

Boudreaux said that federal authorities recently shut down oystering operations in Louisiana following outbreaks of disease. The shutdown will last until authorities can determine if Louisiana oysters are safe to eat.

BMR Chief of Law Enforcement Jerry Gollott said that this year's tagging system for oysters is still under consideration, but will be determined in time for oyster season.

BMR authorities may station a conservation officer on each reef to tag sacks of oysters before a fisherman leaves the reef, or they may establish a check-in, check-out system of tagging sacks.

Under a check-in, check-out system, conservation officers man a station and fishermen must check in with the officers before they go on the reef and check-out and get their oyster sacks tagged after they leave the reef.

"If anybody has any doubts about how the tagging system works or what the law is, they should contact the conservation office in Biloxi (374-3205)," Gollott said.

No matter which system is used for tagging, oystermen will have to pay a shell tax or 50 cents per sack when their oysters are tagged. The shell tax goes to replace oyster shells that fishermen take off the reef.

A hard shell base is essential to the development of oyster reefs.

Ole Miss activities planned for football weekend

Football isn't the only thing going on at The University of Mississippi's Oxford campus Oct. 14-15.

Besides the 1:30 p.m. game between Ole Miss and Arkansas State, weekend activities include a reception for black alumni, meetings for the alumni chapters of the schools of accountancy and education, a meeting of the band alumni chapter officers and an intrasquad baseball game.

The university's annual High School and Community College Day is also scheduled.

On Saturday, Oct. 15, a reception for black alumni living in the counties of Benton, Calhoun, DeSoto, Grenada, Lafayette, Marshall, Panola, Tate and Yalobusha will be held at 10:30 a.m. in the Alumni House auditorium. Howard L. McMillan of Jackson, president of the Ole Miss Alumni Association, will preside.

Speakers for the reception include Dr. Betty Crouther, assistant professor of art and vice president of the Ole Miss black faculty and staff organization; Karen Peairs, career counselor; Toni Avant, admissions counselor; and Rose Jackson Flenor, Alumni Association board member and chairman of the Black Alumni Advisory Council.

Participants will learn about the university's Career Alumni Network, the recruiting process and how they can help, and the importance of black alumni participation, especially in regard to the Minority Scholarship Fund.

On Friday, Oct. 14, the Accountancy Alumni Chapter board of directors will meet at 2 p.m. in the Alumni House board room. At 3 p.m., the chapter's annual meeting for alumni and friends of the school will be held in the Conner Hall.

Participants will have the opportunity to discuss ways to assist the school and to learn of recent developments from Tonya Flesher, acting dean of the School of Accountancy.

The Education Alumni Chapter board of directors will meet at 10 a.m. Saturday in the School of Education Board Room. At 11 a.m., the chapter's annual meeting and luncheon will be held under a tent adjacent to the school building. Dr.

James Payne, the school's dean, will give the 'State of the School' address and the Ole Miss School of Education Alumnus of the Year will be named.

The band alumni chapter officers will meet at 10 a.m. Saturday in the band hall.

Also on Saturday, high school and community and junior college students will be on campus for the university's annual High School and Community College Day. The occasion is designed to give students a firsthand look at Ole Miss and at the many career opportunities the university offers.

The events begin with a 10 a.m. welcome by Ole Miss Chancellor Gerald Turner in Fulton Chapel. At this time, the visitors will be given information on obtaining special discount tickets to the Ole Miss-Arkansas State football game.

An 'Information Fair' with displays will be open from 8:30 a.m. until noon in the Ole Miss Union Lobby. Tours of the campus will be conducted, and many academic and administrative buildings will be open. Students also will be given the opportunity to meet with admissions counselors, administrators and student leaders.

Rebel sports fans will be pleased to note that the Ole Miss baseball team will be playing an intrasquad game at 10 a.m. Saturday in the new ballpark. The event is part of a 10-game fall series the Rebels will be playing this fall.

The baseball game will end in plenty of time for the football game against Arkansas State, the Rebels' first in the newly renovated Vaught-Hemingway Stadium. Fans will be treated to new aluminum bleachers in the east and west sides and renovated restrooms and concession facilities. In the north endzone area, new restrooms and concession facilities were added, as were ramps for the handicapped. A new skybox on the west side houses suites and a spacious press box, complete with air conditioning and elevator access, as well as Club Level seating, where 750 fans will be able to watch the Rebels play from seats with backs on them.

Still to be built in the south endzone area are restrooms and concession facilities and a dressing room for visiting teams.

Firefighters: little in common but their love for the job

BY DENA BISNETTE

"Firefighter" is one of the most apt job names that describe a profession—it tells as much as possible about the work being done.

No job description or title, however, can tell much about the type of people in that profession; in this case, the people are the type who are willing to risk their lives to save the lives and property of others.

There is no typical Hancock County firefighter. A random

Painting a picture of a typical Hancock County firefighter would be difficult, as the firefighters range in age from the late teens to those who are past 50.

There are also firefighters of both sexes. While the county currently has only one female paid firefighter, Pam Sanfillippo of Bay St. Louis, several of the volunteer departments include women. A number of women also serve in related capacities ranging from book-and a neighbor called and said, "Come quick, poison gas leaking from a bottle just killed a man," you would probably say, "You're crazy if you think I'm coming down there." But guess who goes—the fire department.

"We are subject to any type of call at any given time, day or night. Do you know what's funny? It mostly happens at night while the public is sleeping, except those involved."

"It's hard to deal with danger and comfort someone who is losing valuable possessions all at one time."

"We do our best to do our job and keep from getting killed or someone else killed, so don't put us down. Recognize us. Your life may depend on a firefighter one day."

Those words were written by Marty Blackstock, firefighter, a few weeks before his death March 8, 1988, at the age of 29. His wife found them shortly after sudden heart failure killed him.

"Normal people do not strap on 60 pounds of gear and run into burning houses."

Blackstock's mother, Mary Blackstock, said her son was not actually fighting a fire when he died but was working at the NASA Fire Department. He had been a former Bay St. Louis firefighter, and, as is common in Hancock County, was also an emergency medical technician and worked with the Waveland Fire Department and the East Hancock Volunteers.

His mother still does not know why he chose firefighting as his trade. He went to school once to be a welder, then returned to the fire department and never considered any other type of work.

"Marty was very dedicated to his work," she said. "I think he did it because he felt he was giving something back to the towns where he'd grown up."

"It was by choice because firefighters are very poorly paid. Being a firefighter was his whole life."

It is not the pay that draws a person to firefighting, said Mike Willumitis, who has worked as a firefighter since July 1975 and is now on the Diamondhead and Bay St. Louis Departments. He keeps a third job and said that most of the firefighters he knows also moonlight.

Friends got him involved, initially as a volunteer.

He kids that firefighters have to be a little crazy.

"Normal people do not strap on 60 pounds of gear and run into burning houses. People run out of burning houses," he explained.

Turning more serious, he adds, "If you're not scared, you had better get out and do something else, otherwise you're not going to do it long. You'll wind up riding in a box on the back of the fire truck."

Firefighters "look and act like everyone else" but "You've got to be kind of a kid. You know, ride the big truck and blow the siren. You've just got to want to do it...It's kind of a rush."

"You don't think about what might happen to you. You usually get scared after."

"So far, anything that has tried to get me has missed," Willumitis said.

His chief at Diamondhead, Dennis Westbrook, chose firefighting over police work, even though firefighting at the time was ranked as the country's most dangerous job and law enforcement was rated eighth. He said law enforcement had too many negative aspects, while firefighting accentuates the positive.

He has also worked in Jackson County and said Hancock County is unusual. The fire departments have a strong mutual aid agreement, meaning that they assist each other at fire scenes; but they are also bound together by the fact that their training at schools set up by the State Fire Academy or through a paid department, with some in skills like first aid taught by people from other emergency services. They have to be willing to give up their time to training.

He still doesn't know exactly why he and other firefighters gasts, Guillot, Garber, and Fields.

Richard Fayard started fighting fires while still in his teens because his older brother Kenneth was a firefighter at Waveland. Kenny eventually ended up at the Waveland Fire Department and stayed in that job until he died 26 years so many volunteers are on several departments. He considers himself very fortunate that all except two of his Diamondhead men are also volunteers.

HEARTS AND HANDS HELPING OTHERS

"I think everybody at one time or another at least wanted to be a fireman. Being a volunstay with their advocacy.

"You just get used to it. Strangely enough, I enjoy it," Fraley explained.

Tommy Holzhauser, now with Waveland, said it's not for everybody.

"There's too much danger over your head."

He fell into it because he had "too much time on my hands" and his friend, Jeff Garber, got him started as a volunteer. He said one of the most remarkable things about firefighting is its ability to bring people together.

later, Richard even headed the Bay St. Louis Fire Department and is now chief of the BaySide Park volunteers.

His sons and nephews have been involved in firefighting and his sister-in-law still serves as a fire department bookkeeper.

Like Westbrook, Fayard originally wanted to go into law enforcement, but he attended a firefighting school in Gulfport and chose what was going to remain a large part of his adult life.

"You have to have a heart and soul to be a fireman," he said. "A fireman does more mental and physical work than an hour of firefighting that I do at 40 hours a week in carpentry. A person really has to be responsible."

"I don't know why it runs in families. The more I listened to Kenny talk and when I watched him at a couple of fires, I saw that it gets up your adrenaline."

"Volunteers tend to consider it their first job, though they make their money at something else."

"Firefighters are a special breed as far as I'm concerned," he said.

"You have to have a heart and soul to be a firefighter."

sampling of those who serve in that capacity, whether paid or volunteer, reveals that they have only two things in common: they love what they do, and they derive personal satisfaction from knowing they have helped someone.

Hancock County presently has a dozen fire departments, not including the NASA Fire Department at John C. Stennis Space Center.

Three of those departments, Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and Diamondhead, have a total of about 25 paid personnel as well as volunteer auxiliaries.

The other nine consist solely of volunteers and are basically named for the neighborhoods where they are based: BaySide Park, Clermont Harbor, East Hancock, Fenton, Kiln, Lee-town, West Hancock, and the recently formed Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department in Standard, named for a veteran's organization that has assisted in setting up the department.

The nine departments and volunteer auxiliaries currently carry a total active roster of about 190 people, but many of the names on the lists are duplicates because in Hancock County, many firefighters serve on more than one department.

eping to dispatching.

In the words of a deceased firefighter, the profession includes its good and bad moments:

"A firefighter spends half his life in the fire station, working 24 on and 24 off, so the fire station, in today's language, used to be called the Fire House, because it's like you live there, cooking and sleeping like at home, and of course housecleaning, the biggest part."

"People don't realize how much we would like to be with our families at night, just like them. That's what makes a firefighter's wife so special—she is having to deal with problems when we're at work. And of course, being lonely just like us, for half their lives also."

"People always put down the fire departments. They say all we do is sit around and do nothing. I wish they could just see for themselves, constantly training over and over. Firefighters get sick of it, but one day it might save your life, and ours too."

"Half our life belongs to the public; that's who we protect night and day, 24 hours a day, 365 days out of each year."

"If you were home one day

"The people I work with are the best thing about the job. Everybody pulls together...It's like a family up here. They (fire departments) are all the same," he said.

Firefighting also runs in families, like Hancock County's Fayards, Zoerners, Prender-

DRUG FREE SCHOOL COMMITTEE—Members of the Drug Free Schools and Community Advisory Council met last week to plan 1988-89 school activities. Gloria Dean, seated right, Drug Free Schools Coordinator, announced the formation of a Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) chapter at both Bay High School and Bay Junior High School. The council includes members from all area private and public schools, civic groups and government agencies. The Bay St. Louis School District received a federal grant last year to purchase films, tapes and literature to support the community drug abuse awareness program. Coast Episcopal recipient of Mississippi Power grant Coast Episcopal Schools in Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis has received a $5,000 grant from the Mississippi Power Foundation Inc. to upgrade its student computer laboratory and computer science curriculum.

The grant will be used to purchase interactive software, used in student instruction of language arts, math, social science and computer science and to offset the cost of faculty training.

"Computers have become a valuable addition to a comprehensive curriculum," Coast Episcopal High School Principal Linda McCulloch said. "They provide administrators with management tools, train teachers and provide students with new challenges."

Students in elementary and secondary grade levels will use computers in class activities.

The Mississippi Power Foundation, Inc. is a nonprofit organization formed by Mississippi Power Company to fund programs designed to improve education in the state.

Schwabacher performs in WIU vocal ensemble

Western Illinois University has announced that Alicein Schwabacher of Bay St. Louis has been chosen to perform with Spectrum, an ensemble of Dimensions vocal ensemble. WIU Dimensions is comprised of two different vocal ensembles accompanied by acoustic keyboard, synthesizer, electric bass, drums, saxophone, trumpet and trombone.

"When Octagon, our eight-voice jazz ensemble, Spectrum, our all-women show choir, and the Combo combine in performance they are known as WIU Dimensions," a spokesman explained.

The fall concert will be presented Nov. 19.

Greek Night slated Oct. 22

Food preparations are well under way to make the 21st annual Greek Night on Oct. 2 a most enjoyable evening out on the Coast. Greek Night is an annual fundraiser for the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church on Beauvoir Road in Biloxi.

Tickets for Creek Night may be purchased at the ticket office of the Coast Coliseum in Biloxi; ticket chairman E. L. Boro, Long Beach; the Pascagoula Ship Supply Co. in Pascagoula and from individual church members. The sooner the tickets are purchased and reservations made the better the table locations will be, said Demetri Vlahos of Biloxi, reservations chairman.

The purchase of a ticket entitles the holder to cocktail hour with Greek hors d'oeuvres of Tiropetakis (individual cheese pies), Kefiedis (Greek meatballs) and feta cheese.

The dinner menu is Psito Arni (baked, boneless lamb legs with lemon, garlic, oregano and other spices), Kota Egano (chicken baked Greek style), the popular Manestra Orzo Pasta, Spanakopeta (spinach pie rolls), Yiaprikia (stuffed grape leaves with egg/lemon sauce), Greek salad with Kalahata olives, feta cheese and olive oil dressing, and for the dessert the ever popular Baklava (pastry-layered filo with butter, nuts, honey, and spices).

All foods are being prepared by the members of Holy Trinity community.

An exclusive floor show will be provided by the Hellenic

Dancers of New Orleans. They will perform traditional and current Greek folk dances, and will be wearing costumes from various villages and islands in Greece.

Music for this gala evening will be provided by the Grecian Keys of Warren, Ohio. They will provide a variety of dance music ranging from Greek music, American swing, to any popular dance requests that anyone may have. There will be door prizes given, and the grand prize is a table for 10 to Greek Night 1989 as guests.

"Come one and all Oct. 22 to the Coast Coliseum and Convention Center from 6:30 to 1 a.m. and experience a touch of Greece on the Coast," said Photine Vlahos, publicity chairman.

MSU-sponsored Taft Seminar attended by three local teachers

Thirty elementary, junior high and high school teachers, librarians and administrators from throughout the state recently completed a two-week seminar in Jackson. The seminar was designed to expand their knowledge of American government and the nation's political system.

For the past nine years, Mississippi State University has conducted the Robert A. Taft Seminar on Two-Party Government in Jackson in cooperation with the New York City-based Taft Institute. Specifically, MSU's sponsors are the John C. Stennis Institute of Government, the Political Science Department, the College of Education, and the Division of Continuing Education.

Seminar participants were given the opportunity to meet leading representatives from both political parties, prominent local, state and national governmental leaders; veteran members of the news media; and others involved in government and politics.

Among this year's guests were Governor Ray Mabus, Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye,

Secretary of State Dick Molpus, Attorney General Mike Moore, Senator John C. Stennis, Senator Thad Cochran, Republican Senatorial Candidate Trent Lott, former Mississippi Governor William Winter, former Republican Gubernatorial Nominee Jack Reed, and State Auditor Pete Johnson.

Classes for the Taft Seminar are also led by political science faculty from the state's public and private colleges and universities.

The privately funded institute, formally known as the Robert A. Taft Institute for Two-Party Government, was founded in 1961 as a memorial to the late United States Senator from Ohio who led conservative Republican opposition to the Democratic administrations of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. Taft died in 1953 at age 63.

Teachers participating in the seminar included William Riggs of Pass Christian, Coast Episcopal High School; David Stockstill of Picayune, Hancock North Central High School; and Marian S. Cassidy of Waveland, Long Beach High School.

TAFT SEMINAR PARTICIPANTS—David H. Stockstill, right, Hancock North Central teacher of Mississippi state and local government, recently attended a political science seminar at Mississippi State University. Stockstill, a Picayune resident, served on the Republican Party Platform Planning Committee, a project of the National Republican Senatorial Committee. From left are Dr. Stephen D. Shaffer, MSU associate professor of political science and Taft Seminar director; Senator Thad Cochran; John R. Darling, MSU Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs and Stockstill.

BUCCANEER PERSONNEL HONORED—Greg Smith, manager of Buccaneer State Park, holds the plaque designating Buccaneer as the Best Maintained State Park in the system. Stu Rayburn, center, was named outstanding park ranger of the year, and Joe Rieux was named maintenance supervisor of the year. The awards were presented at the September meeting of the Commission on Natural Resources at J. P. Coleman State Park.

Post office launches genealogy campaign

The Postal Service, in conjunction with the National Association of Retired People (AARP) and the National Genealogical Society, has launched a national 'Plant a Family Tree' campaign.

Preserving the link between generations is something very similar to the relationship the Postal Service has had with the American community for over 200 years in providing a service that keeps families in touch. This campaign is especially important with families constantly on the move in their quest for better opportunities. Free family tree fill-in charts with instructions will be available in October and November in post office lobbies nationwide.

L. O. Crosby Jr. memorialized in UM scholarship endowment

A major scholarship endowment has been created at The University of Mississippi in memory of the late Lucius Osmond and Verna Mae Crosby of Picayune.

Through her will, Mrs. Crosby gave the university $200,000 to create a memorial to her late husband, L. O. Crosby Jr. After her death, Mrs. Crosby's family gave the university an additional $100,000 to create a memorial in her name as well. With the gifts, Ole Miss created the $300,000 L. O. and Verna Mae Crosby Memorial Scholarship Endowment. Adding to the endowment were Mrs. Crosby's sister, Mrs. Evelyn T. Smith of Picayune, and her nieces, Mrs. Lynn S. Mitchell of Picayune and Mrs. Anne S. Knight of Jackson.

Proceeds from the endowment will provide a minimum scholarship of $2,500 a year to selected students from eight Mississippi counties. Recipients will be chosen from candidates who have maintained an "A" average in their high school course work and scored a minimum of 27 on the ACT. The total award per student could be $10,000 for eight semester of study.

Recipients of the Crosby Scholarships must be full-time students from Forrest, George, Greene, Marion, Lamar, Pearl River, Perry and Stone counties and will be selected by the University Standing Committee on Financial Aid.

Mr. Crosby, who received his bachelor's degree from Ole Miss in 1931, was president of Crosby Forest Products Co. at his death in December 1978. Mrs. Crosby was also president of the company at the time of her death in May '88.

Additional contributions to the L. O. and Verna Mae Crosby Scholarship Endowment may be made through the University of Mississippi Foundation, P.O. Box 249, University, MS 38677; telephone (601) 232-5955.

JEFFERY P. WALLACE, son of Johnny Wallace Jr. of Bay St. Louis, was commissioned a second lieutenant through the Army's Early Commissioning program after completing the ROTC advanced camp at Fort Riley, Kan. Wallace was commissioned before obtaining a bachelor's degree because the advanced camp allowed the officer to complete ROTC requirements for assignment to either an Army National Guard or Reserve unit. The lieutenant will continue working toward a degree at the University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg.

Fund raising drive to aid black colleges

Graduates and former students of the nation's 116 historically black colleges and universities are being asked to contribute over $8 million during

'Payback '88' a two-month fund-raising campaign instituted four years ago to increase alumni financial support of minority institutions of higher learning.

The campaign is sponsored by the Council of National Alumni Associations.

Funds raised in last year's campaign totaled over $8 million and organizers of the 1988 project are hopeful that contributions will exceed that amount.

"The funds are used to help pay delinquent accounts and to establish scholarships at historically black colleges and universities across the nation," said Hilliard Lackey, 'Payback '88' national coordinator and director of alumni affairs at Jackson State University, Jackson.

Honorary co-chairmen for 1988 are JSU graduate Eddie Payton and Tennessee State University alumnus Nolan Smith. Both are former National Football League kick returners. Payton's professional football career included stints with the Minnesota Vikings and the Kansas City Chiefs. Smith played with the Kansas City Chiefs.

"Since the average kick-off return is 25 yards, we are asking graduates and former students to make an average return of $25," said Payton.

"By giving a minimum of $25, graduates will help offset the financial shortfall that black colleges across the nation are experiencing," Smith said.

'Payback '88' ends Nov. 26 when the amount of funds raised will be announced at halftime of the Grambling State University and Southern University Bayou Classic football game in the New Orleans Superdome.

THE BIG DECISION—Kristin Bowles of Bay St. Louis casts her vote during the University of Southern Mississippi Associated Student Body primary elections Sept. 29. Bowles, 21, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Bowles. She is a senior majoring in interior design at USM.

MILITARY MENTION

SEAMAN BULLOCK

Navy Seaman Joel S. Bullock, son of Arthur M. and Marion E. Bullock of Brandon, Fla. recently participated in a historic event while serving with the Precommissioning Unit Battleship Wisconsin, based at Pascagoula.

After more than 30 years, the battleship sailed under its own power while performing routine equipment tests in the Gulf of Mexico. As the last of the Iowa-class battleships, USS Wisconsin will be recommissioned in October.

He is a 1986 graduate of Tampa Bay Vocational Technical School Tampa.

Chevis named AAFP Fellow

Dr. Sidney A. Chevis of Bay St. Louis has been named a Fellow of The American Academy of Family Physicians.

The degree may be attained in two ways: successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study, or achievement of comparable status in the specialty of family practice as a result of passing a certifying examination administered by the American Board of Family Practice. Plus, the doctor must be a member of the AAFP for at least six years.

The fellowship entitles the conferee to use the title of Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians (FAAFP). FAAPP members are required to maintain 100 hours of approved CME credit every three years.

Coast Mensa Society seeks new members

There are 4,950,000 'missing' persons in the U.S. It is estimated that 50,000 reside in Mississippi. About 200 have been located so far; some 40 of them live along the Coast.

Who are these 'missing' persons? They could be people of any age, of any educational level, on any economic level; in fact, there is only one way to identify these people in this very special category. Could you be one of the 6,000 living in this area?

What are these 'missing' persons missing? They are missing a unique opportunity to meet with others at their own intellectual level through Mensa. They are missing the challenge that dares them to use and expand their intellectual potential. They are missing an opportunity to identify and foster intelligence for the benefit of humanity; to encourage research in the nature, characteristics and uses of intelligence; and to provide a stimulating, intellectual and social environment for its members.

How can you find out if you are one of the "missing" persons? You are one if you have a verifiable, qualifying IQ placing you in the upper two percent of the population. Or, you can apply for testing, through the local/national organization, given in your area by a proctor from the local group. All scores are strictly private.

A special dutch treat supper meeting will be held Saturday, Oct. 15 at 6:30 p.m. at Barnaby's Seafood Restaurant, 306 East Beach (U.S. 90) in Long Beach.

The organization will answer

OPEN HOUSE—Hancock County Schools recently held an open house at both North Central and Gulfview Elementary Schools. Principals Donald North and Kim Stasny stated, that this was the largest turnout ever for the school system. New Parent-Teachers Organization officers were elected at North Central: Pam Lind, president; Frank Palermo, vice-president; Linda Peterson, secretary/treasurer; Cindy Havard, public relations. From left to right, at the Gulfview open house, are third grader Rusty Davis, parent Sue Sumral, teacher Robin Robertson and parents Tony and Chris Caston. (Hancock County Schools photo)

Mother's Day greeting card contest open to fourth, fifth, sixth graders

It's always the right time to think about Mom, but a special contest happening now can provide big rewards for thinking about Mother's Day this fall.

The seventh annual Kentucky Fried Chicken/Good Housekeeping "All American Salute to Mothers" national Mother's Day greeting card contest is open until Dec. 1 and offers elementary school students a chance to express their feelings for mom and win valuable prizes for themselves, their teachers and schools.

The contest, this year incorporating the theme, "The Changing Role of Mother in the 20th Century," is open to the nation's fourth, fifth and sixth grade students. A free lesson plan is available to teachers who wish to use the contest as a class activity. The grand-prize winning card will be produced for sale in greeting card stores nationwide in time for Mother's Day, 1989.

One student winner is selected from each state and the District of Columbia. Each of these winners receives the newest Fuji 35mm automatic compact camera and a special certificate of merit from Kentucky Fried Chicken. Ten national finalists are named from the state winners and their cards are printed in the May issue of Good Housekeeping magazine.

The grand-prize national winner is awarded a three-day trip to New York City with a parent or guardian to open a special exhibit of the 51 winning cards, $2,500 in cash and the production of his or her card by Carlton Cards for national distribution. The second place winner receives $1,000, the third place winner, $500, and seven fourth place winners receive $250 each.

Teachers of the top ten finalists also receive the same Fuji 35mm camera. The grand-prize winner's school is awarded a complete set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and the schools of the other nine finalists receive two-volume sets of the World Book Dictionary.

"We're proud that the contest helps children express how they feel about their mothers," said Don Solomon, chairman of the Kentucky Fried Chicken National Cooperative Advertising Program, Inc. "Over the years, more than three million children have participated in the program, learning to expand their creativity and making a long-lasting keepsake for their mothers."

Students may enter through their schools, through the November issue of Good Housekeeping magazine or by writing to:

Kentucky Fried Chicken Mother's Day Contest, 10866 Wilshire Blvd. Suite 550, Los Angeles, CA 90024

Teachers may request the free contest lesson plans at the same address.
